Warm All Over: Remnants by Brooke Herr ($5-150)

This hodgepodge of collage, clothing and clay pieces, were all part of the research for Warm All Over: Things Pulled Out, an installation that experiments in seeking/growing/sustaining intuitive wisdom. These remnant pieces are the ones that took a divergent path, or wanted to exist solo. The wearable items are dyed with natural plant materials (eucalyptus, creosote, turmeric, chamomile, iron liquor) &/or hand embroidered.

Rebecca Purcell's Organon 9 Worlds Card deck ($55.)

The Organon 9 Worlds Card Deck explores creativity in a revolutionary new way – each card is a portal to a unique world and its complex connections to the creative process. The cards can be used to shed light on your current project, provide confirmation and a fresh perspective regarding your creative path, and ascertain central themes that can be returned to throughout life.

e.f. ceramics ($21-42)

is a line of simple handmade pots and pendants intended for everyday rituals.

Each piece is handmade by Eliza Fernand. Although the forms are slipcast, each one is trimmed, glazed, and signed with the e.f. insignia individually, resulting in variations that are a welcome mark of the artist's hand. Eliza makes her molds from unique found objects or hand-carved forms. The interior of all pots are coated with food-safe glaze; they are good for hot or cold liquids, and handwashing is recommended. This collection reflects all of Eliza's inspirations- patchwork quilts, geometry, women, and the moon.

The Book of Life comes to us in this reality as a deck of playing cards. As we approach it with intention and receptivity, it points us to our gifts and how to share these gifts with the world. I discovered this system two years ago and have been patiently teasing out its secrets and how to best use it. Learning my birth card and planetary card has helped me immensely in finding my center and focusing my energy. Now, I invite you to join me in a reading, so that together we could unearth your hidden gifts and truths. I recommend coming with an intention, or a question to best open the system to us. --Louise Ma
